

International Collaboration for Cultural Competency, Compassionate Care and Leadership

An innovative education collaboration between King's College London, Harvard School of Dental Medicine, and Institute of Science Tokyo will explore ways in which broader provider cultural awareness can benefit our patients.

The two online workshops will focus on developing students' appreciation of diverse cultures within our respective educational environments and how learning from each other can boost compassion and improve health outcomes for our diverse patient populations.

These interactive student sessions will center on "care and empathy" and offer opportunities for sharing.

Dates/times:

Sep. 16 (Tue) 20:00-21:30 (JST)/7:00-8:30 (ET)/12:00-13:30 (GMT) and
Sep. 30 (Tue) 20:00-21:30 (JST)/7:00-8:30 (ET)/12:00-13:30 (GMT)

Venue: Zoom

For further information or to register, please visit the link or scan the QR code.

<https://forms.office.com/r/nkHpLJTeHn>

【Application Deadline】

Institute of Science Tokyo : Sep. 1 (Mon) 10:00 (JST)

Harvard School of Dental Medicine and King's College London :

Sep. 9 (Tue) 21:00 (JST)/8:00 (ET)/13:00 (GMT)

Contact:

Yushima International Exchange Support Group,
Global Education Division, Institute of Science Tokyo

<https://www.tmdu-global.jp/en/>

exchange.y.gedu@adm.isct.ac.jp