

2016 Medical Introductory Course Classroom Assistance

We are looking for several enthusiastic international students who are fluent in English and interested in assisting instructors in the Medical Introductory Course (MIC) for first-year students from November through December. These are discussion type sessions where your job would be to facilitate one or two groups with their in-class discussions. With your help, it is our hope that the first-year students will have deeper, more fruitful outcomes to their discussions. (You must be able to attend all sessions.) A moderate token payment will be provided. Details are as follows:

Class:

Medical Introductory Course (MIC)

Dates & Times:

12:30-14:20, sessions run from 12:50-14:10,
