

Lunchtime Seminar

Case study of Clinical Infectious Diseases

As part of this university's Top University Project, we invited Dr. Kevin Ard who currently holds the positions of Instructor at Harvard Medical School; Assistant Physician and Associate Director of the Division of Infectious Disease's Outpatient Parenteral Antibiotic Therapy Program at Massachusetts General Hospital.

During his week at TMDU we have planned a variety of activities, one of which is these lunchtime seminars for clerkship students, interns and residents. Please join us and actively participate in the discussions. Lunch is not provided, but feel free to bring yours and eat while learning.

Medical staff and TMDU faculty are also welcome to come and join in the learning process. Please join us in the sharing of knowledge.
